

Is solar power the only power source in the South

Biomass was the largest source of renewable primary energy in the US, and the fourth-largest renewable source of electrical power in the US, after wind, hydropower, and solar.

In 2022, solar overtook hydropower for the first time. Solar and wind energy will lead the growth in U.S. power generation for at least the next two years, according to EIA estimates.

Most electricity is generated with steam turbines that use fossil fuels, nuclear, biomass, geothermal, or solar thermal energy. Other major electricity generation technologies include gas ...

In 2024, utility-scale solar and wind were up nationwide, while coal was down and other major sources had little change.

For the first year ever, three states (Iowa, South Dakota, and Kansas) produced more than 50% of their electricity through wind power alone, and two of them more than 60%.

Electricity comes from a variety of sources, including nuclear, wind, and solar. Other major power sources include coal in most states and hydroelectricity in others. The sources vary by state, ...

Southeast states (Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia) got nearly 27 times as much electricity from solar in 2024 as in 2015, producing enough ...

While solar power is still a small part of the state's generation mix, it has grown rapidly over the past several years, beating out hydro as the state's largest source of renewable electricity.

The Southern U.S., which includes Texas, Florida, and North Carolina, has a unique energy mix dominated by natural gas, but also increasingly influenced by solar power.
